

REV. THOMAS P. FRAWLEY DEAD

The Rev. Thomas P. Frawley of St. John's Church, Peabody, died at the Cardinal O'Connell House St. Elizabeth's Hospital, today after a short illness.

Son of Capt. Patrick J. Frawley of the Lowell police, Fr. Frawley was ordained to the priesthood in 1917 and was assigned to the Church of St. Mary of the Assumption, Brookline, in 1918. He remained there until 1927 when he was sent to Peabody.

Fr. Frawley was popular in both Brookline and Peabody. In addition to his father, he is survived by a brother, who also is a priest.

N. Y. Boxer Slain in Battle With Burglar

New York, April 28 (AP)—Two bullets from a burglar's hand killed Sidney Harris, 22-year-old professional boxer and former New York University football player, today.

Harris surprised a burglar in the bathroom of his Bronx apartment. He leaped upon the intruder and as he did two bullets hit him in the abdomen. The burglar escaped.

Hurt in Crash

Mrs. Gus Sonnenberg, 31, wife of former heavyweight wrestling champion, was injured in collision of her auto with that of Mrs. Vivian M. Horton of Golden sta. Belmont. Mrs. Sonnenberg was taken to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Iotti, Payson rd., Belmont.

HOPES FAIL FOR CUT IN ARMS

Geneva, April 28 (DNB)—With hopes of uniting the big powers of the world in a common program for disarmament dashed, Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and the other leading delegates prepared to leave Geneva today, leaving the disarmament negotiations in the hands of technical commissions and sub-committees.

The inability of Premier Andre-Tardieu of France to attend an important five-power meeting scheduled for tomorrow threw the conference back to where it started and also raised the possibility that arms-building might take the place of the disarmament when not then hoped for.

Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald hinted readily that Britain might be obliged "take advantage" of the "vacillating" clause in the London naval treaty, building up her present fleet if France and Italy declined admission to the London pact.

Salem Girl Dies Laughing at Film

A hearty laugh at scenes in a motion picture comedy, brought about the death last night, from a heart attack, of Alice S. Judge, 18, Salem high school girl in a theater in Lynn. She fell into laughter during the picture and then suddenly collapsed.

MAY DAY RIOTS FEARED IN N. Y.

New York, April 28 (AP)—New York's 12,000 policemen will give their families this week-end. Sunday is May Day and they, in common with scores of many wage slaves of the world, will be on guard against possible rioting.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney issued his annual order to all policemen to stay on duty from 4 p. m. Saturday till 8 a. m. Monday. Guards will be stationed at the homes of public officials, prominent citizens and government buildings.

Federal agents, assisted by local police, will inspect parades and divisions to prominent people.

He was of wax, and wore a $17.50 suit.

'Kidnap Victim' Shot by Policeman as 'Abductor' Flees

Chicago, April 28 (AP)—Policeman Joseph Haller signed a "kidnaping" right in the bud today. He shot the victim, but the criminal escaped.

In the early morning hours he heard the sound of crashing glass and saw two men, apparently struggling from a building and started for a parked car.

Haller leveled his pistol. The shot brought down the kidnaper's victim. Haller pursued the fugitive but was outdistanced. Then he went back to the wounded man.

He was of wax, and wore a $17.50 suit.

THREE IN SHACK BURN TO DEATH

New York, April 28 (AP)—Three men who seemed to become charity burdens, and joined forces to fight poverty, were dead today because of a sudden conflagration.

They were burned to death when a spark from a garbage can they had been using as a furnace set fire to their lean-to shack in a four-story district of dumps, docks and warehouses on 12th ave.

The dead, Thomas Fitzpatrick, 40; Paul Reed, 28; John Welch, 12; Frank Murray and John Longtin.

BIG MILK FIRMS FALL IN LINE

Two large dairy companies, Seven Oaks Creamery and Westwood Farms Dairy Co., today abandoned opposition to the Governor's Advisory Milk Board and its stabilization program.

Only one company, the W. E. Stuart Co., remains to join the program. A producers' strike is still on against them in Vermont.

Failure of all three companies at first to join the stabilization movement caused the strike of producers and ended with revocation.

DARROW PLEA TO JURY AS HONOR TRIAL NEARS THE END IS REMARKABLE IN TOUCH

Veteran Defender Asks Jury to Forget Color, Consider Case as Human Beings

He was not in his right mind. No man would have been normal after what happened to this American husband and his beautiful, talented wife. I don't know what you gentlemen would have done if you were in his shoes but I know that you would have done the same thing.

"If I had been there, I would not have shot only once, as he did," the veteran lawyer shouted. "He would only have stopped when the last bullet in the gun was gone."

"A dead man was in the hands of these defendants. What to do? I would be only a short time before the whole town was aroused. The first instant was fight. Naturally, there was no preparation for disposal of the body. They had not expected to kill any man. That was proven by the way they hastily grabbed a sheet and wrapped up the body and started with it in an automobile for the sea."

"If they had been going to kill any one they would not have been in that bungalow without any preparation."

"Does any one think it possible," he asked in a quivering voice, "that more sorrow should be heaped on their devoted heads?"

"It is possible any one could say that prison cases should close in these defendants. I ask you, gentlemen, to take these poor suffering people kindly into your care, and to do unto them as you would wish to be done unto you in a similar case."

"Take them with a heart of pity and understanding if you would do them justice."

Plea for Tolerance
Avoid Racial Issue, Darrow Asks Jury

After this stirring and emotional plea, Darrow went on to say that the race question did not enter into this case.

"Circumstances are race tolerance, the Pacific ocean will run red with blood in the future," he declared.

"All races must mingle together. I have met the Hawaiians here. They are as lovable and kindly a people as I have ever seen. I wish to leave here with such kindly feelings as that with which I came."

"I have no feelings on account of race in this trial. But there are people of every race in every land who, from bad environment or otherwise, are criminal."

"I ask everybody in this jury but to forget race and pass upon this purely as a human case."

"I have no fire feelings against the men who committed this horrible crime against Mrs. Massie regardless of their race. I suppose I am a Caucasian. I suppose I don't know what it is behind me. I know there are Caucasians with whom we cannot live. The premises are full of them. Even in Chicago people are not alike, all Hawaiians are not alike. All Chinese are not alike. All Japanese are not alike. I took this case regardless of feeling of race or creed, or of any individual jury."

He reviewed the events that occurred on the night Mrs. Massie was strangled.

"What did Lieut. Massie learn about that reprehensible, almost, at least, unthinkable that horrible story?"

"This young woman was dragged into a car, but few broken by rattles unknown to her, and then taken into some house and attacked."

"Can you imagine any greater calamity befalling that family?"

Darrow asked the jury to pity the Massies, to pity the place as he stressed the "unwritten law" theme. With electrifying emphasis he again told of the "little Massie" attack, occasionally lowering his voice and ignoring all other speakers directly to the jurors.

"Lieut. Massie has done nothing. Mrs. Massie's mother has done nothing."

"And yet they are made to suffer for this horrible crime against a young wife, more terrible blow than befall this family. Suppose you jurors heard."

"Mrs. Massie's mother has done nothing."

"And yet they are made to suffer for this horrible crime against a young wife, more terrible blow than befall this family. Suppose you jurors heard."

"I ask you as human beings to consider this case."

Clarence Darrow, famous defense attorney in the "honor" trial in Honolulu, in action. His manner is full of sharp contrasts. Now almost whispering, now roaring, he drives his points home in varied fashion. "Every instinct of motherhood is bound up in this case," he told the jury in behalf of Mrs. Grace Hubbard Fortescue and her co-defendants.

"Mrs. Massie's mother has done nothing."

"Here she is, waiting to go to the penitentiary. If she goes, with this husband and these faithful boys, it won't be the first time a prison has been sanctified by its inmates," Atty. Darrow declared regarding Mrs. Fortescue.

The fate of the four defendants in Honolulu's "honor" trial now rests with the 12 men. Attorneys for both sides have pleaded with the jury and now the question is—what will these 12 men say? The foreman's announcement may mean imprisonment or freedom for Mrs. Grace Hubbard Fortescue, Lieut. Thomas Massie, Albert S. Jones and E. J. Lord.

length on the mental condition of the young naval officer after the attack. He showed:

"He just hops, he lost courage, he lost weight. Our institutions are filled with men today who are not as sane as was Lieut. Massie at that time."

"Do you think he was responsible for that terrible night of the assault?"

"There is not one fact or suspicion to contradict the most terrible story these islands ever knew."

Darrow stated as he described the young navy officer's efforts to keep up his daily work at the submarine base here, as he nursed his wife at night, and how suffering for his agonized, anxious mind.

"Gentlemen," Darrow thundered, "I want to know if all these things Lieut. Massie underwent are not the basis of insanity?"

Looking straight into the eyes of the jurors, he said:

"I speak to you gentlemen to put yourselves in the place of these defendants."

"Do what you think is just and right as you see justice and righteousness and we will be content."

At the end of the first hour of his address, a recess was taken. Darrow looked tired and worn. He seemed pathetically old as Mrs. Massie bowed to his side and he bowed to his wife's side.

Almost unseeing he stumbled against Mrs. Darrow. His face and guided him to his seat. Special Clarence Darrow in an intimate, almost confidential attitude as he addresses a jury. "In these 12 men in this court who would have Lieut. Massie and his mother-in-law in prison after hearing the circumstances in this case?" he asked the jury in "honor" playing trial. "I don't believe it," he declared.

lack on his wife.

"These false rumors were peddled up and down the street. This campaign of vilification began very early, even before the attack jury was read."

"Lieut. Massie was going to get a divorce. . . . Some fellow officer of the Navy attacked his wife. . . . I can't remember them all, but what I ask, could they be so bad?"

"What did they do?"

"Let me say to you, if these defendants be sent to prison it would place a blot upon these fair islands which all the Pacific sea could not wash away."

"Do you suppose Tommy (naming Lieut. Massie) was in his right mind when he thought he heard footsteps outside his home in the dead of the night?"

He was being harassed and worried by these stories.

"How much indeed can the human mind stand?"

"Some men have gone insane only a word, by fright, or terror, or fear."

"Strong men might have endured what Lieut. Massie went through, but Lieut. Massie is not a strong man."

"Mr. Harry Critch, associate prosecutor, told you he feels sorry for these defendants. I think he is. I don't see how he could feel otherwise."

"But why do these prosecutors want to put these people in jail for at least 30 years? Because, I ask you, one is a mother and one is a husband, and two are friends?"

"I have lived in courts and I have heard testimony dealing with women for many years. I have heard lawyers trick and bewilder witnesses. I am afraid I have done it myself years ago."

"That I want to say this, Lieut. Massie was harassed and taken over the same ground. Yet he told a straightforward, plain and simple story."

"Was there any cowardice or fear in him?"

"Few people ever saw a young man stand up against such a withering cross-examination as this young lieutenant did. Few people were listened to a more straightforward man."

"And gentlemen, I never heard a witness tell a more simple story than Mrs. Massie."

Reputation Attacked

Vile Rumors Spread to Discredit Massie

"Wasn't it enough to break down anyone's mind?"

"Could it have caused anything else?"

"You must now decide the fate of these people."

"Has anyone placed a finger on a story to contradict this young wife's story?"

"For eight months her assailants have been trying to fasten the guilt on someone else and save themselves."

"A serious disagreement of the jury in the trial of Kahahawai and his four co-defendants accused of the attack on Mrs. Massie. He continued, pounding the table."

"After that disagreement a campaign was begun to discredit Lieut. Massie—a campaign such as has not been waged before against any man."

"Vile stories were told. Rumors and stories that Lieut. Massie himself broke his wife's law."

"These stories came to Lieut. Massie. They came also to his wife and to her mother."

"I wonder what fate has befallen against this family. I wonder what fate will again take a further toll."

Darrow accorded eloquent praise to Mrs. Fortescue, a woman 500 miles to the side of her daughter. This was an emotional climax to the argument and those in the courtroom burst into tears.

"Mrs. Fortescue acted as every mother acts."

"She did as your mother would do."

"Her daughter was married and a long way off, but still she was her daughter."

"She came to her—came to the girl who had been the little baby that she had borne and loved and cherished."

"Now she is here in this courtroom ready to go to the penitentiary for her daughter's sake."

"All right, gentlemen, go to it."

"I tell you if those faithful boys and this mother go to the first time that a prison has been sanctified by its inmates."

Darrow Slips Up on Defendant's Name

Honolulu, T. H., April 28.—Although his famous four-hour address for the defense in the "honor trial" was devoid of errors on the part of the great lawyer, Darrow, master courtroom strategist, is feeling the weight of his 75 years.

At one time he was forced to ask the name of one of the naval cadets men he was defending.

Darrow remarked that the slight lapse would never have occurred 20 years ago.

With his hand, "and you, and you, and you."

"You know why Lieut. Massie and the others came in this courthouse to get Kahahawai."

"They knew he was the defendant in the assault case when the jury disagreed."

"It would have made no difference if they had got him in church or on a street corner."

"The truth of this story does not rest with Lieut. Massie alone," Darrow continued. "Dr. Paul Whiting, the family physician, told you more. He told you how he examined Mrs. Massie and how he was forced to operate to prevent Mrs. Massie from becoming a mother as the result of the attack."

And then Darrow dwelt at some

GOVERNORS OFF TO DINE WITH HOOVER

Fredericksburg, Va., April 23 (AP)—Thirty Governors, en route from Richmond to Washington, where they will dine tonight with President Hoover, stopped here today to visit the grave of George Washington's mother and the law office of President James Monroe. Governor Henry S. Callfield of Missouri spoke for the executives at the brief exercises at Mary Washington's grave.

"Mary Ball Washington," he said, "typifies the finest example of American motherhood. Her life calls for attention the whole nation to mothers, not only by their children but by the world."

Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt was cheered as he next President by the crowd in front of Monroe's old law office.

SLAYER DODGES 200 POLICE

Farmington, N. Y., April 23 (AP)—A negro sought for murder through Long Island county, into a future during which 200 police converged on the village today. Willie Jackson, wanted for slaying another negro in Corona two months ago, was seen on the Old Brickworks rd. and a constable followed him. Jackson ran into an abandoned house.

"Come and get me," he shouted. "Not me," said the constable, and went off to telephone for reinforcements.

Police wires buzzed with reports of a murderer at bay. Some reported, saying several murderers were fighting it out with police.

Police officers carried 200 with machine guns and tear gas bombs to the shack. They found the constable sitting in the doorway smoking his pipe.

"Jackson must be out of the window while I was telephoning," he said. "He was gone when I got back."

60 Corporations Thrive by Advertising; Others Die

Rohensetady, N. Y., April 28 (AP)—Gilbert T. Hodges has facts and figures to prove that it pays to advertise even in times of economic distress.

Hodges is president of the Advertising Federation of America, which has completed a study of the 1932 records of 120 corporations. Sixty of these corporations failed to maintain their advertising programs. The other 60 annually increased their advertising expenditures at an average rate of 15 per cent over the previous year.

$100,000 FIRE AT AIR FIELD

Rohensetady, N. Y., April 28 (AP)—Fire destroyed one of seven hangars and ten airplanes at this field today with a loss totaling $100,000. Two persons were burned, one seriously.

Carl Schneider, former German war pilot, was taken to a hospital at Mineola badly burned. He and John D. Eguire, who also was burned, but not so badly, were the only persons in the hangar at the time of the explosion.

Schneider was working at the time on the $50,000 amphibian plane Pegasus owned by Whitney. It and another smaller plane owned by Whitney were destroyed. Also among the burned planes was one valued at $20,000 and owned by George Kent, Jr., of Jericho, N. Y.

Hofstadter Perjury Suspect Surrenders

New York, April 28 (INNS)—Louis R. Hofstadter, indicted for alleged perjury before the Hofstadter committee about Bronx Public Works Commissioner William J. Flinn, surrendered today.

Simultaneously, Flinn announced his intention to file a $100,000 defamation suit against Samuel Seabury, who produced Willard as the star witness against Flinn.

Struck by Two Cars, Only His Shoulder Is Dislocated

Not only by one car, but by two, was Everett Duclos, 32, of Canal st., West Medford, struck today at High and Canal sts.—and he came back along with only a dislocated shoulder. A doctor snapped it back in a jiffy.

Duclos was struck by the left rear leader of a car operated by Joseph N. Murphy of Valley st., Medford, and was bounced off into a car going in the opposite direction, operated by Thomas F. Conners of Massachusetts ave., Lexington.

East Toronto, N. Y., April 28 (AP)—A Great Northern pickle factory was destroyed by fire today with loss estimated at $50,000. One thousand barrels of pickles were destroyed.

MISSING TRIO'S CHUMS QUIZZED

Chief Archie M. Bullock of Arlington today questioned three boys in the search for three other high school sophomores missing from their homes since Monday and feared drowned in Spy Pond when their canoe capsized.

The boys said they saw two canoes beached on Monday at Wyman's point on the pond shore and five youths leave the boats. Despite this information, Metropolitan police continued to drag Spy pond.

Ralph Santoliquido, father of one of the missing youths, returned home after a futile search of Providence lodging houses. A checkup at a rendezvous playing in Providence failed to reveal the youths. The missing boys are David Heinrich, 15, of 61 Newcomb st.; John Vogel, 16, of 73 Throldville st. They left home Monday to play tennis. Instead, they hired a canoe and went out on Spy pond. The canoe was found floating on the pond with no signs of the youths.

Turkish Premier 'Goodwills' in Russia

Istanbul, April 28 (AP)—Ismet Pasha, premier of Turkey, accompanied by a party of 34 Turkish dignitaries, arrived here today on a visit of friendship and good will.

DIVA REVEALED AS BRIDE

New York, April 28 (AP)—Glady's Swarthout, contralto, one of the youngest members of the Metropolitan Opera Company, six weeks ago, it was learned today, was married secretly.

Immediately after the wedding, Miss Swarthout left with the Metropolitan company and sang leading roles in the Baltimore, Conn. and Rochester performances.

Impossible Happens; Four Get Perfect Bridge Hands!

Uniontown, Pa., April 28 (INNS)—Four persons gathered for a friendly rubber of bridge at the home of A. C. Bailey.

Each picked up the cards, and each experienced a wild flutter of the heart. Each had been dealt a perfect hand.

Miss Collins had one heart. George Tanner had six spades. Bailey had seven diamonds and Tanner came back with a bid of seven spades for a grand slam.

ATTACK ALARMS NORTH IRELAND

Belfast, Northern Ireland, April 28 (INNS)—Northern Ireland was startled and puzzled today by the rising up and tarring of an Armagh City man by a band of armed and masked men who left him with the following placard:

"Beware of the Irish Republican Army!"

The men drove to the home of the victim in a stolen motor car, broke into the house, dragged him from bed, and after binding and torturing him departed.

Why

did Norge gain more in 1931 than all other makes combined?

Sales gains like this aren't made by accident. There must be a reason.

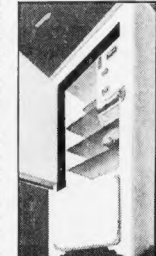

In Norge it's the Rollator. Only Norge offers Rollator Refrigeration—"Powered for the Tropics," simple, dependable, low cost, fool-proof. The extra cooling power of the Rollator mechanism gives you an extra measure of everything you expect of electric refrigeration. The thousands of Norge users who have experienced Rollator Refrigeration tell more thousands of their friends about it. And that's how sales records are broken.

But those thousands who saw the Norge and bought saw more than a mechanism. They saw a beautiful, well designed, well built, well finished cabinet. They liked the waist-high shelves—the odor-proof ice freezing compartment. They noticed the rounded corners inside. They saw the Vior family and many other such features. For it is a fact that no other electric refrigerator offers you so many advanced features of utility and convenience.

You, today, seeing Norge for the first time, will see a still finer Norge than the one which broke sales records in 1931. See it before you buy an electric refrigerator.

Norge Corporation is a division of Borg-Warner Corporation, one of the world's largest makers of precision parts, including automotive free wheeling.

BANDIT'S BRIDE SAYS SHE AIDED IN HOLDUPS

New York, April 28 (AP)—A young farm boy from Wisconsin and the famous girl he married three weeks ago, just before both lost their jobs, were held in $25,000 bail each today in West Side court, charged with night holdups.

The prisoners are Ward Summerfield, 24, whose father, Amos, is a farmer of Elm, near Milwaukee, and his bride, who was Elvira Davis, of New York.

In court their attorney asked for an adjournment to May 2, which was granted. When a detective told the court that the couple had committed nine chair grocery store holdups, Summerfield interrupted to say:

"It's mistaken, your honor. I had no connection with them."

"No, I'm equally in blame," his bride said. "I helped him with six of the robberies as soon as I knew how he was getting the money for our room and meals. I wasn't going to let him run the risk all alone. He would go in and I'd come and bolt the door behind him. I'm just as much to blame as he is."

They were arrested last night when his attempt to rob a Columbus ave. grocery store was halted by a clerk's rush to the street. Summerfield fled and was captured by police after he had run past his wife, whom police said he had persuaded to wait outside.

MANY 'G. W.'S' IN APRIL MAY DAY PARTY

More than 200 children of grades one to six took part today in the season's first May party at Bingham school, Lowell st., Somerville. Miss Elizabeth O'Neill, sub-master, and the Misses Hubbard and Scotland of Sargent school guided an interesting program. A feature was the appearance of six children attired as George Washington, shown in this group. Special numbers included the "Jolly as the Miller" and Indian war dances.

TRAMPS 24 HOURS AND ARRIVES AT LIFE

Takes Sleep Potion Then Doctors Fight to Save Him

Newark, N. J., April 28 (AP)—Howard Edwards, who swallowed a sleeping potion with the net result that he walked for 24 hours without going anywhere, cast a dirty look at a hollow-eyed orderly last night and full into a ditch.

"Come away, fellow," he said "don't want to be called for a week."

If Murphy had caught up with him at hour sooner it would have been the sleep that knows no waking—and that is why Edwards took the longest stroll a tired man ever took without getting some place.

It was Tuesday night when Edwards, 35, a salesman, felt the need of something to induce repose. He took a sleeping potion—in fact he miscalculated and, by accident, took enough to put three men to sleep.

THEN JOURNEY BEGINS

The stupor came on him so quickly that his mother became alarmed and he was removed to City Hospital. Then his troubles began. Doctors said if Edwards went to sleep his heart would succumb to the regressive action of the potion, and cease to beat.

Two orderlies took him into a corridor. Believing he was going to bed, he smiled a weary smile of satisfaction. But he wasn't. They walked him 30 feet and then retraced their steps. This went on for a quarter hour, and then they put him in a wheel chair.

Whenever he showed signs of quiescence, out of the wheel chair they would drag him and take him for another walk. Soon he was awake enough to be angry.

"Here, leave me alone, will you?" "I gotta sleep."

But the orderlies, tired out themselves by now, would only take a firmer grip and keep on walking. All night the journey continued, despite Edwards' protests.

"You sleep, I tell you," he would shout. "Let me go away!"

By dawn he had given up complaining and was awake enough for less heroic measures. He was put in a wheel chair. Every few minutes an orderly would pounce on the chair and jerk it violently from side to side.

"Ugh," Edwards would say, and that was all.

His bones ached and his head seemed to be burning.

Not until nearly 5 o'clock last night did they take a chance and put him to bed. Even then, for three hours an orderly would dash in every ten minutes, seize him by the shoulders and shake violently. Finally, at 8 p. m., with the danger over, they let him go to sleep. He was still asleep today.

RYAN WARNS OF AUTO CHECKUP

Register of Motor Vehicles Morgan T. Ryan last night issued the following statement with reference to the necessity of having all auto registered in the state inspected as to equipment by Monday.

"The spring campaign to check up those cars which have not yet had their equipment inspected will start Monday morning, May 2. I have ordered the force of inspectors and examiners in all parts of the state to be alert to stop every car not displaying the official green sticker as evidence that its equipment has been duly inspected."

"All cars not carrying the green stickers, and all owners not able to show their registration papers with certificate of inspection at scheduled times, will be reported on complaint cards. These cards, in the case of owners found operating unlicensed motor vehicles, will result in immediate suspension of the license of such owners."

Gossip About People You Know

WARD STRONGEST

State Senator Michael J. Ward of Roxbury is today one of the strongest district political leaders in the Commonwealth. In the face of one of the greatest landings in the history of Massachusetts he placed his district, Ward 8, South End-Roxbury, in the Roosevelt column, his only leader in the success.

The Ward organization there has been in existence less than six months and the campaign of Tuesday was their first test of strength. Friends are now hailing the popular Roxbury as Boston's second Martin Lombardy.

Threats of Violence Fizzle Out as Police Take Them in Hand Along Line

The hunger marchers moved toward Boston today buoyed by the report that President George Baggett, of the State Senate, and Speaker Everett Stoughton, of the House, would receive a committee from their ranks this Monday.

Threats of violence fizzle out as police take them in hand along line.

A new group sprang up in Lawrence today after several hundred marchers left the city.

A message from the city of Lawrence, who awaits a permit for a parade, was received today.

The marchers, who are now in the city, are expected to arrive in Boston today.

The group which started from Worcester last Sunday was in Hudson today and is expected to arrive in Boston today.

Another group heading toward Boston from the southeastern part of the state are expected to arrive in the city by tomorrow or Saturday.

He was an independent candidate for alderman that year. I think John B. Murphy had been in the race, but he was full of fire and under thirty years of age. He was a great man. I've admired Murphy ever since."

Police Seeking Rum Find Big Lottery Plant in Roxbury; Agents Are Listed

Boston's biggest baseball pool was on the rocks, at least temporarily, today, as the result of a Roxbury raid, arrest of four persons and seizure of $5,600 tickets.

The pool is the Bankers' Circuit Corporation, a corporation organized in 1928, and operated by a group of men.

Police were seeking a man when they stumbled into the lottery headquarters in Savin, at Roxbury. Those arrested were John Sweet, 37, his wife, Jeanette, Mary McKeen, 35, all of whom gave the Savin address and Wayne Street, 24, of Roxbury.

They were charged with setting up and promoting a lottery, intended to be a grand prize of $100,000, to be held on May 6. Ball for Sweet was valued at $100 to $200.

The place was an assembling and distribution plant. There were two sewing machines for stitching the ends of the tickets, and about 500 circulars and memoranda, containing the names of hundreds of agents.

FULLIS MAKES GOOD AFTER LONG TRIAL

By JOE CASIDIAN
It has been the cause of much debate and wonderment in baseball circles why the usually important John McGraw allied Charles "Chick" Fullis, his present center-fielder, five years to develop into a regular.

The average outsider with the Giants shows plainly immediately, or he is quickly shipped elsewhere. Fullis, who spent the first two years of his career in the minors, was permitted to hang around, warming the bench, while such able all-around flycatchers as "Lefty" O'Doul, Fred Leach, Wally Piron and George Harp were being out of the post grounds picture.

Fullis Resembled Hugh Duffy at Bat
Fullis must have shown a special brand of promise, and that's just what he did.

He looked and acted like Hugh Duffy, the old major, who back in 1924 turned in a batting average of .336, which hasn't been and probably never will be equalled or even closely approached.

Old-timers say Fullis could pass for a twin of the Duffy of the 20s in build and that he has a batting stance identical with that of the present Red Sox coach.

Fullis showed little at the start. He was tried in both the infield and outfield but he failed to make the grade. And he didn't hit. In 1926 he had the unenviable record of getting in only 33 games and not making a single hit.

Always, however, he stood up there like Duffy, which insured him his job, and last year finally started to hit a bit like the prototype. He got into 82 games and finished with an average of .325, which gave him tenth place in the batting list.

Today he's the regular center-fielder, which means his defensive play is perfect, and he's hitting harder than any of his mates with the exception of Bill Terry and Hugh Cline.

Hugh will have a chance to look over his "right" in the Giants this afternoon, if it stops raining. The opening of the engagement between the McGraws and our Braves, called for Wednesday, had to be postponed because of a cold wave which eventually turned into snow.

Diamond Dust

The Red Sox jump from Philadelphia to New York today, on a three-game series with the Yankees. Thus far they have been out picking for the McGrawmen losing three times in four starts but they'll offer much stiffer opposition in that engagement if they show the class they did while whipping "Lefty" Grove over in Quakerdom.

Danny MacFadden will go to the mound for the Col. armen today in an effort to chalk up the first victory of the season. The Deacon has lost two games to the Yankees by a narrow margin and was knocked out of the line in the third inning by the Yankees' only other starter. His opponent as he tries to gain revenge for that early trip to the showers will be Vernon Gomez, young whippersnapper of the New Yorks.

That game the Sox won from the Yankees by a score of 10 to 4. The champion Yankees gave them the series in Philly as it was the only win of three scheduled contests which the weather permitted to be played.

Overcoming a four-run lead, the Chicago Cubs swept in victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates, 8 to 4, to gain undisturbed possession of first place in the National League. The Cubs had been sharing with the Braves. Lance Ribbrough, a former Bravesan, took Karl Oyster's place in the Windy City outfield and came through with a home run.

I AM GLAD to see that the loss of the world's welterweight title was not traced to Lou Brown, and a sport. The Worcester youngster has just as much fire in his makeup as he had before he knew Jack Thompson from the welterweight ring.

HORNSBY HAS N. L. PENNANT CONTENDER

By BILL CORUM
New York, April 28—Now wishing to be noticed by the sports department of the New York Times, the New York Yankees have a world title at stake.

What I really set out to talk about was the Chicago Cubs, who have a chance to win the pennant. The only team he ever managed with which he had a chance was the Cardinals of St. Louis. With them he won a pennant and world's series in 1924.

Pro Starters Needed for Olympic Games

Robertson, America's foremost Olympic authority, has issued a warning that unless the United States has a sufficient number of professional starters, the country will be handicapped in the 1936 Olympic Games.

Robertson, who has been a starter for many years, pointed out that the United States has a large number of amateur athletes, but lacks the professional starters who are essential for the Olympic Games.

SHOULD RAILWAYS GO TO PROTECT FOX HUNTS?

By GILBERT SELDES

MR. JOHN FORREST wants to know whether in my defense of the fox-hunter I have not been guilty of the same error which I have just committed in my article of the 15th. He asks me to go to the Chamber of Commerce and see the committee on the subject of the fox-hunt. I have done so, and I have found that the committee is composed of the same old, same old members who have been in the Chamber of Commerce for years.

It does not at all indicate what we might have thought in the 1830's and 1840's. Our whole attitude is that the fox-hunters have been a blessing—except to the fox-hunters. But it is barely possible that if the English Parliament had refused to grant any right of way, and if England had persuaded the rest of the world not to allow the demon locomotive to run wild over the countryside, the whole history of the world would have been changed for the better.

The moment we took our hands off the brake which has been holding the world in check, we have let loose the powers which have been holding the world in check. Under limited manufacturing, high pressure salesmanship, pyramids of finance, technological unemployment, multiplication of needs of life, and the change in social standards—all can be traced back to the lack of courage on the part of these same English gentlemen who finally abandoned fox hunting in favor of "lured trains."

They may look stupid to us now; but there must be many who would cheerfully exchange what we have for what they had.

PRICE CHANGES IN SMALL STOCKS

New York, April 28.—Price changes were again noted in the trading today on the New York Stock Exchange, the market being up and falling, but displaying a heavy tonnage of the session.

The bulk of 4 points in the Auto to a new low, although the side market later, was rather un-bailing for a time.

RAILS ARE HEAVY
Hoping to question the market was the heavy ton in the railroads, around its near market bottom. Point was down in sympathy.

Standard Oil of New Jersey was a feature of the early trading, doing in a near run to the move on heavy volume, but giving ground later with the rest of the market.

Pennsylvania continued to be depressed by yesterday's action of directors in breaking the road's profitable record, but it was available around its all-time low.

Profitability and dividends characterized midday trading and prices in the bulk of the session moved toward lower levels. Gains which had been marked up in earlier trading were largely wiped out, and prices generally ruled below the level of the previous day.

Leading issues such as Consolidated Gas, Coca-Cola and American Kodak, gave ground early and ended the session with losses. Other utilities held firmer than other issues.

BONDS ARE DULL
Despite a few moderate rallies here and there, listed bonds today maintained a generally listless attitude with the trend somewhat lower.

A number of United States Government bonds showed their price slightly, but as a whole the market maintained a steady tone.

Declines were also noted in the high price of the government bonds, but there has been no accumulation of the latter, their prices have held little better than steady.

New York City next week will be the first time that the borrowing of the $150,000 revolving fund, involving the city's revenue, has been supplied, operating funds as needed in a constant rate of 5%.

The city has borrowed $150,000 on revenue bills due early in January, but as a whole, the market will enter only a few million, as the deficit has collected both money and current needs can easily be met from revenue and bonds.

Publication of the Federal Reserve Board's monthly report indicated attention to the gradual improvement in financial conditions. The total volume of reserve bank credit outstanding increased $125,000,000 in the first three months of April. This gain was accompanied by a substantial growth in member bank reserves.

Wall Street showed particular interest in the monetary reserves of member banks. A record decline to 180 above the level of business upturn has been preceded by a trend such as the one now discernible.

A portion of the banking district was for an early start, but the rate of the New York Reserve Bank's discount rate was expected to discuss the subject at their meeting today.

BOSTON STOCKS MADE A NEW LOW

Lower prices featured today's trading on the Boston Stock Exchange. After a forenoon trend of mixed prices the market sagged and early gains were erased. Boston Elevated, however, maintained its fractional advance made early in the session.

American Telephone preferred dropped 4 points to a new low for the year. Rail shares were not with Algonquin, which rose over a point from last night's close. Old Colony was at a new low for the year from a drop of nearly 5 points. Pennsylvania was steady around the previous closing price.

American Telephone preferred dropped 4 points to a new low for the year. Rail shares were not with Algonquin, which rose over a point from last night's close. Old Colony was at a new low for the year from a drop of nearly 5 points. Pennsylvania was steady around the previous closing price.

After a forenoon trend of mixed prices the market sagged and early gains were erased. Boston Elevated, however, maintained its fractional advance made early in the session.

Standard Oil of New Jersey was a feature of the early trading, doing in a near run to the move on heavy volume, but giving ground later with the rest of the market.

Pennsylvania continued to be depressed by yesterday's action of directors in breaking the road's profitable record, but it was available around its all-time low.

Profitability and dividends characterized midday trading and prices in the bulk of the session moved toward lower levels. Gains which had been marked up in earlier trading were largely wiped out, and prices generally ruled below the level of the previous day.

Leading issues such as Consolidated Gas, Coca-Cola and American Kodak, gave ground early and ended the session with losses. Other utilities held firmer than other issues.

BONDS ARE DULL
Despite a few moderate rallies here and there, listed bonds today maintained a generally listless attitude with the trend somewhat lower.
